

Orange Map

Sara,

Here is my draft map for National Demographics Corporation to evaluate. Since we were using colors, I thought I would call this the Orange Map.

I am concerned the neighborhood north of the San Diego River and south of Carlton Oaks Drive will become isolated from a representative elected from south of the San Diego River. In fact, those living south of the river will be the most disenfranchised portion of the city if the representative is elected from north of the river.

Since the communities must be balanced by population, I have added residents to District 4 from west side of District 1. Residents from District 3 have been deleted from District 4 and added to the west side of District 2.

The simple addition and subtraction from each district leaves a better balance of residents without separating large neighborhoods or leaving anyone disenfranchised.
